Reds Told U. S. Won't Disarm Without Curbs

Twining, Khrushchev Exchange Remarks About Military Race

MOSCOW (AP)—Gen. Nathan Twining, U. S. Air Force chief of staff invited to Moscow to see the latest in Soviet aviation developments, has told his hosts the United States will not disarm until it is certain of worldwide controls.

Twining, his aides and British and French air force chiefs were among foreign guests yesterday at the Soviet Aviation Day show in which the Russians unveiled three new types of fighter planes and a new jet-propeller transport.

It was the first time U. S. and British air chiefs witnessed the annual display.

Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev told the foreign guests the show omitted new heavy jet bombers because "we wanted to emphasize defense, not offense."

The new models shown included (1) three delta-wing day interceptors assumed capable of supersonic speed, (2) two "advanced type" day fighters of a model called "Farmer" by U. S. airmen and first shown last year, (3) two improved all-weather fighters of the type labeled "Flashlight" by Western observers, also shown in the original version last year, and can operate from short, unimproved runways.

THE CROWD of more than 200,000 at Tushino Airport saw (4) a single assault-type, twin-engine turboprop transport which about 120 fighters, 40 helicopter transports and only 16 bombers fly over. Last year's show featured 73 bombers.

Western experts said none of the new aircraft was unexpected. They added that the show included nothing startlingly new.

At a garden party at the Soviet Army Club after the show, Soviet leaders proposed repeated toasts to disarmament and world friendship. When his turn to speak came, Twining said politely:

"We know what war means and my country has proved through the years we are a peaceful people. We always got into wars very late."

"After the last war we disarmed completely. That, gentlemen, is disarmament. We had to build up our forces again at Korea, and we are not going to reduce them again until we are sure of worldwide arms controls."

He was applauded by diplomats and air force delegations of Britain, France and the U. S.

During the entertainment, Khrushchev said to Twining:

"You probably are very interested in our rockets and ballistic missiles. We will show you all you want to see. You would like to see them, wouldn't you?"

Twining nodded.

Khrushchev slapped his knee and roared. "Well, we want to see yours. Show us your planes and we'll show you our missiles."

The U. S. general replied, "You can read all about ours in our journals."

Lausche Vote With Dems?

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—Democrat Gov. Frank J. Lausche of Ohio, has tossed a new element into the Ohio senatorial race.

The governor said yesterday he does not know whether he would vote with the Democrats to organize the U. S. Senate if he is elected to that body next November.

His statement raised the possibility that he might help the Republicans organize the Senate, and undermined one of the chief campaign arguments of his Republican opponent, Sen. George H. Bender.

Bender contends he is needed in the Senate to help give President Eisenhower Republican control.

Demonstration Agent Is Now on Job Here

Mrs. Norma Cunningham, Fayette County's new home demonstration agent, was spending her first day on the job at the Extension Office here Monday.

Actually, Mrs. Cunningham has been at work for a week already. But during that time, she has been helping over at 4-H Camp Clifton near Yellow Springs and Monday was her first day on the job here.

A native of Mentor, near Cleveland in Lake County, Mrs. Cunningham just graduated from Ohio Wesleyan University in Delaware. Although she has had a great deal of experience in 4-H work and related matters, this is her first full-time position of this sort.

As home demonstration agent, she will work with girls' 4-H clubs and women in home demonstration clubs, among other things.

Sponsors of Move To Oust U. S. Troops Win in Iceland

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP)—Iceland's Conservative Independence party, which wants to keep American troops on this strategic Atlantic island's NATO bases, lost ground in yesterday's election.

The alliance of Progressives and Social Democrats, sponsors of the drive to oust U. S. forces from the big Keflavik air base and other installations, almost won a clear majority in the parliament.

For the first time in the parliament's 1,000-year history, more than 90 per cent of the 90,000 qualified voters cast ballots. The results appeared certain to be another coalition government, since neither the conservatives nor their opponents captured a clear majority of Parliament's 32 seats.

The preliminary count gave the Conservatives, led by outgoing Premier Olafur Thors, 19 seats. Previously, they held 21.

The Progressive-Social Democratic coalition appeared to have taken 25 seats, a gain of 3. The Communists held on to 7, the same number they had before, and one place was undecided.

A TOTAL of 27 seats is required for formation of a government by a single party or combination of parties. The Conservatives and Progressives had governed together since 1953 but split when the Progressives last March pushed through a resolution asking withdrawal of American forces within 18 months.

The National Defense party, which is anti-Communist but made U. S. withdrawal its sole election appeal, apparently had lost the only two seats it held in the old parliament.

Ike Going to Panama City in July; Conference with Nehru Postponed

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower decided today to visit Panama City July 21-22 for a meeting with the presidents of other American republics. But he postponed scheduled July 7-10 talks with India's Prime Minister Nehru.

The two actions took care of a pair of major decisions facing the President regarding his activities the next month or six weeks.

All of the decisions are subordinate to the big one—whether to stay in the presidential race. If he has made that one already, he isn't saying.

Another major decision for the President to make concerns where to complete his convalescence. He hopes to be released from the hospital late this week.

Presidential press secretary James Hagerly has indicated that a decision on the place of convalescence probably will be made tomorrow.

The President's farm home near Gettysburg, Pa., has been mentioned. Doctors have estimated he will need another three weeks of recuperation after leaving Walter Reed Army Hospital here.

The Panama conference originally was scheduled to have started today, but the emergency surgery on all these matters forced rescheduling of the event. The White House announcement today included the new dates.

Nehru is now on a tour outside his own country and is supposed to be enroute to America after stops in the Middle East, France and England.

The President's personal air liner, Columbine III, had been scheduled to fly Nehru from London to Washington and then back to London after the Indian state visit had been completed here.

The Eisenhower-Nehru conference had been scheduled to be held in the President's mountain hideaway, Camp David.

Eisenhower may get advice from his doctors on all these matters sometime this week, as well as on the extent to which he will be able to step up his handling of government business after he leaves the hospital.

As for the big political question, Sen. Bridges (R-NH) said some people who have talked with Eisenhower at the hospital have come away saying he "talks as if his plans were unchanged." Bridges added, however, that he didn't think the second-term question had come up directly.

Eisenhower was described as elated yesterday when physicians removed the last of his surgery stitches. It was the 16th day after he underwent the emergency operation for relief of partial blockage of the small intestine.

The President enjoyed his longest and best sleep last night since becoming ill. His spirits and morale were reported still "extremely high" today.

A morning bulletin from Walter Reed said:

"The President had a most comfortable night. He slept almost continuously for nine hours."

"His condition continues to progress very satisfactorily. His spirits and morale are extremely high this morning."

FBI Aid Asked In Ohio Search

Warren Area Killer Reported Out of State

WARREN, Ohio (AP)—Trumbull County Sheriff T. Herbert Thomas sought federal aid today in the hunt for Alfred Wilson, who police say killed three women.

Two steps were necessary to bring the Federal Bureau of Investigation into the case: A warrant charging first degree murder and an affidavit that he is believed to have crossed state lines to avoid prosecution.

Wilson is the 37-year-old beefy truck driver who, police said, fled into a rage over the departure of his common law wife, Juanita, and went on a shooting rampage Thursday night.

His victims were two of his wife's sisters and a teen-age girl he never had seen. The sisters were Mrs. Geraldine Brown, 30, of Leavittsburg and Mrs. Hazel Botts, 32, of Cortland. The girl was 17-year-old Nancy Worthington of Leavittsburg, whom authorities said he kidnapped, beat and shot after a chance meeting.

Though poses searched for many hours Friday and Saturday in the ravines and wooded hills north of Windham in Portage County, there was one report Wilson had fled as far as Indiana.

AN AKRON truck driver, David Shaffer, 33, returned from a trip Saturday with a story of having seen a man he was "positive" was Wilson.

The incident was at a filling station on the edge of Hammond, Ind. Shaffer said the man he believed to be Wilson told him a story of needing $266 to pay off fines levied when officials at a weighing station found his truck overloaded. Later, when he passed the weighing station, he saw no impounded truck.

The man was asking directions to Louisville, Ky., and may have headed in that direction.

Weekend Mishaps Leave 20 Dead

COLUMBUS (AP)—Accidents brought death to at least 20 persons in Ohio over the weekend.

The toll was compiled in an Associated Press survey that ran from 6 p. m. Friday to last midnight. Of the total, nine died in traffic mishaps and six drowned.

New Expansion Step County Board OKs Roszmann Annexation

The growing movement among various rural property owners living close to the corporation lines of Washington C. H. for annexation to the city received another boost Monday when the petition of Dr. Marvin H. and Mrs. Gale Roszmann seeking such annexation, for 2.73 acres of their farm on Route 35, was granted by a resolution unanimously passed by Fayette County commissioners.

A copy of this official action is being mailed to the City Council where, under the law, it will lie for 60 days pending any possible court injunction.

After that period the city officials will take action. There was no opposition from any source to the commissioners' resolution.

The gradual expansion of some of the city's corporation limits is being made evident by annexation petitions from owners of three other properties, now lying outside the city corporation now before the commissioners for hearing.

One of these is from Weldon and Mrs. June Kaufman, for their property just west of the Roszmann land. Another is from Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lipschutz, on Highland Ave., near the Washington Country Club. The third is from Mrs. Jean Dice, for a piece of land lying adjacent to the Lipschutz property.

Admiral King, 77, Critically Ill

PORTSMOUTH, N. H. (AP)—Adm. Ernest J. King, 77, who led the U. S. Navy to victory in World War II, was reported in critical condition with a failing heart today at Portsmouth Naval Hospital.

The wartime chief of naval operations was reported suffering from a circulatory and respiratory failure after he was stricken with a heart ailment yesterday.

His son, Lt. Cmdr. Ernest J. King Jr., said: "It is not a heart attack but heart failure brought on by high blood pressure."

Senator Fears Loss Looms For U. S. Air Bases Abroad

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Jackson (D-Wash.) said today possible loss of overseas air bases by the country is an important reason for the Senate to approve a billion-dollar increase in Air Force funds.

"The truth is that our overseas bases are becoming less and less reliable to support our air atomic power. From Iceland to Okinawa, key strategic bases are now under political attack," Jackson told the Senate.

Jackson contended that if the overseas bases are lost, more B-52 long-range bombers capable of operating from this country will be needed to deter the increasing Soviet strategic air power.

The principal issue, as the Senate debated the big Defense Department appropriations bill, was whether and how much to increase the funds President Eisenhower asked for the Air Force.

The Senate Appropriations Committee, while cutting slightly some parts of Eisenhower's $15½ billion Air Force budget, voted to add $1.1 billion for additional planes, bases and manpower.

GOP Convinced Ike To Run Resistance Looms for Adlai

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Republicans seemed generally firm in their conviction today that President Eisenhower's status as a presidential candidate is unchanged.

And Democratic candidates gave fresh evidence at the Governor's Conference meeting in Atlantic City, N. J., and elsewhere that front-running Adlai Stevenson will not get the Democratic nomination without resistance.

Gov. Arthur B. Langlie of Washington, a senatorial candidate and keynote speaker of the August Republican convention, said he is still confident Eisenhower will seek re-election.

Politicking went on as usual during the technically nonpolitical Governors' Conference.

Gov. Averell Harriman of New York said he will seek openly the support of the Democratic governors at the meeting. Supporters of Stevenson were making their pitch there too.

THE THIRD active candidate for the Democratic nomination, Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, signified Saturday night he has no intention of giving up.

"I want the presidential nomination and will not accept anything else," he told a Nashville rally, adding, "I am not a candidate for vice president. I seek no deals with any other candidates."

With the Democratic National Convention only a little more than seven weeks away, the latest Associated Press tabulation of delegate pledges and first-ballot preferences gave Stevenson 30½, Kefauver 16½ and Harriman 11½. It takes 68½ for nomination.

The possibility of a party-splitting row at the Democratic convention was raised again at the governors meeting when Harriman and two other Democratic governors called for a civil rights plank in the platform.

Harriman and Governors Meyer of New Jersey and Williams of Michigan joined in urging that the civil rights plank specifically

Great Lakes Area Feels Cooler Air

CHICAGO (AP)—Cooler air invaded the Great Lakes region today, but steamy weather prevailed over the rest of the nation.

Warm temperatures and high humidity readings were reported from the central and southern plains eastward to the Atlantic Coast. Showers and thunderstorms occurred over much of this area with several cities reporting more Great Lakes region, dropping temperatures 10 to 20 degrees. Grand Marais, Mich., reported an early morning low of 44.

Trustees Tap Columbus City School Chief

100 Candidates Eyed For Man To Succeed Bevis, Retiring Saturday

COLUMBUS (AP)—Novice G. Fawcett, 47-year-old superintendent of Columbus schools, today was appointed Ohio State University's eighth president.

The university's board of trustees designated the public school educator to succeed retiring President Howard L. Bevis Aug. 1. Bevis, now 70, retires next Saturday.

Fawcett's acceptance hinges on whether the Columbus Board of Education releases him from his $21,000 a year post. The presidency of the university pays $29,000 a year.

Fawcett was chosen for the Ohio State presidency from a field of more than 100 names presented to the board by a special faculty screening committee named some months ago.

In announcing the appointment, Board Chairman Forrest G. Kerner of Columbus, issued this prepared statement:

"WE HAD THREE primary considerations in seeking an individual for the presidency—first, we wanted an administrator with an outstanding record of performance. Second, we sought an educator of good academic standing, and, third, a man who could continue and advance the university's highly valued relations with other state colleges and universities in Ohio and the privately endowed colleges, the secondary schools of the state, the Ohio Legislature and many other agencies and groups served by the university.

"In brief, we were looking for a man who could be a good manager."

Fawcett was not present when the announcement was made.

Dwight L. Swisher, president of the Columbus Board of Education, said he personally favors releasing Fawcett from his five-year contract as superintendent of Columbus schools, and predicted the majority of the other board members will feel the same.

Fawcett is a native of Gambier, the seat of Kenyon College. He attended Kenyon two years until the depression of 1929, gave up his home of studying law, and took up school teaching.

He continued his education, however, and got his degree of Bachelor of Science in Education from Kenyon in 1931, along with membership in Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary fraternity.

He became superintendent of Gambier schools three years later, took his Master of Arts degree at Ohio State University in 1936, and then served as superintendent of schools at Defiance in Northwestern Ohio for five years.

Then his career took him to Bexley, a Columbus suburb, where he headed the school system for four years until his appointment as assistant superintendent of schools in Akron in 1947.

LESS THAN TWO years later he took on the task of modernizing (Please Turn to Page Twelve)

Fawcett Is First Educator To Be Ohio State President

COLUMBUS (AP)—Dr. Novice Fawcett, named today to succeed Dr. Howard Bevis as president of Ohio State University, is the first professional educator to head the big institution.

In the past, the ministry and law have prominently figured in the backgrounds of the men who have headed the university since its inception in 1873.

Three of the seven were lawyers and three ministers. The seventh gave up a study of theology to become a geologist.

Six of Ohio State's chief administrators have been native sons. The only "foreigner" was first president Edward Orton, New York born geologist who later moved to Ohio. Orton had served one year as president of Antioch College, Yellow Springs, Ohio, when he accepted the position of president of the newly established Ohio Agricultural and Mechanical College which opened its doors in Columbus in 1873 to 17 students.

During his eight years as head of the struggling land grant college, Orton also filled in as a professor of geology—a position he held for 10 years after resigning the presidency. Orton Hall, housing the university's department of geology, was named in his honor.

Dr. Orton's successor was the Rev. Walter Quincy Scott, a native of Dayton and a Civil War veteran. Elected in 1881, he resigned two years later as a result of public criticism of the lack of compulsory religious exercises at the school.

For the third president, the trustees chose another Ohioan, another minister and another Scott. Dr. William Henry Scott (no relation to his predecessor) was a native of Athens County and a graduate of Ohio University. An ordained Methodist minister, Dr.

Scott was serving as president of his alma mater when he was chosen to head OSU.

When he began his 12-year term in 1883, the university had an enrollment of 311 students, many of whom bitterly resented the dismissal of Rev. Walter Scott.

The new president, however, rode out the storm of religious controversy and student resentment to lead the university into its first great period of material prosperity.

Dr. James Hulme Canfield was the first lawyer to serve as president. He was born in Delaware, Ohio, and reared in New York City where his father was an Episcopal rector.

He practiced law for nine years in Michigan, served 14 years on the faculty of the University of Kansas and four years as chancellor of Nebraska University before (Please Turn to Page Twelve)

In announcing the appointment, Board Chairman Forrest G. Kerner of Columbus, issued this prepared statement:

"WE HAD THREE primary considerations in seeking an individual for the presidency—first, we wanted an administrator with an outstanding record of performance. Second, we sought an educator of good academic standing, and third, a man who could continue and advance the university's highly valued relations with other state colleges and universities in Ohio and the privately endowed colleges, the secondary schools of the state, the Ohio Legislature and many other agencies and groups served by the university.

"In brief, we were looking for a man who could be a good manager."

Fawcett was not present when the announcement was made.

Dwight L. Swisher, president of the Columbus Board of Education, said he personally favors releasing Fawcett from his five-year contract as superintendent of Columbus schools, and predicted the majority of the other board members will feel the same.

Fawcett is a native of Gambier, the seat of Kenyon College. He attended Kenyon two years until the depression of 1929, gave up his hope of studying law, and took up school teaching.

He continued his education, however, and got his degree of Bachelor of Science in Education from Kenyon in 1931, along with membership in Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary fraternity.

He became superintendent of Gambier schools three years later, took his Master of Arts degree at Ohio State University in 1936, and then served as superintendent of schools at Defiance in Northwestern Ohio for five years.

Then his career took him to Bexley, a Columbus suburb, where he headed the school system for four years until his appointment as assistant superintendent of schools in Akron in 1947.

... Fawcett's acceptance hinges on whether the Columbus Board of Education releases him from his $21,000 a year post. The presidency of the university pays $29,000 a year.

Fawcett was chosen for the Ohio State presidency from a field of more than 100 names presented to the board by a special faculty screening committee named some months ago.

Polio Clinic Set For Tuesday

First of Two Shots To Be Given Then

Preparations for the polio clinic to be held Tuesday from 10 a. m. until 2 p. m. in Fellowship Hall of Grace Methodist Church today were nearing completion.

Children from a year old through 15 years of age and pregnant women are to get the first of two Salk vaccine shots at this clinic.

Another clinic is to be held at the same place on July 17 to give the second shots.

It was noted that no third shots are to be given.

More than 700 boys and girls, who were in the second and third grades of the city and county schools last year, already have received their two shots, a preventative measure against paralytic polio.

Because there are several types of infantile paralysis, it was said that any boys or girls in the eligible age bracket who have had polio should go to the clinic, also.

The clinic is being made possible through the cooperative efforts of the county Health Department and the Fayette County Medical Assn.

FOUR PHYSICIANS have volunteered to administer the vaccine: Dr. James Rose 10 until 11 a. m.; Dr. Robert Woodmansee 11 a. m. until noon; Dr. Joseph Herbert noon until 1 p. m. and Dr. Marvin Rossmann 1 p. m. to 2 p. m.

From the Health Department there will be at the clinic Dr. Benton V. D. Scott, health commissioner; John Todd, sanitarian; Mrs. Doris Diffendall, clerk, who will keep the records, and two nurses, Miss Ruth Weintjes and Miss Gretchen Darlington.

From members of the Professional Nurses Assn., who also have volunteered to help are Mrs. William Lucas, Mrs. Corrine Sperry, Mrs. Marvin Rossmann and Mrs. Frank Sollars.

Wayne Bower, Tom Mark, James Hutton and Rollo Marchant have agreed to put aside their personal affairs for the four hours to help guide the children through the clinic.

It was said at the Health Department that medical authorities have agreed that Salk vaccine can be administered in the summer with safety. One exception was noted: children who are acutely ill (with fever or rash of any sort) should not be vaccinated.

County Youths Win In Grange Contest

Janet Kneider and David Shirk, both of Leesburg, topped a pair of second places as representatives of Fayette County at the district Grange talent competition held at the McAdams Grange near Wilmington.

The two, both of whom demonstrated their talents as singers, won the second places in competition against the tops in talent from seven counties in this area.

By their triumph, the pair will serve as alternates to the state contest, to be held later this summer.

Janet won a second place with a vocal solo and Janet and David together won a second as a duet team. Miss Martha Ellis of Leesburg played piano accompaniment for their numbers.

Both youngsters are members of the Forest Shade Grange.

Program Ends Bible School

'Graduation' Held At Staunton Church

A varied program of singing and recitations climaxed a week of Bible School for youngsters at the Staunton Methodist Church. The program was held Sunday evening in the church.

Prelude to the program was played by Mrs. Mary Black, after which the whole congregation sang a hymn and joined in prayer. The youngsters opened their part of the program with the Pledge to the Bible and the Pledge to the Flag.

All youngsters joined in singing the song "BIBLE," a title which the beginners presented a Bible drill. The junior group offered a collection of Biblical recitations as their part of the program.

Songs, sung by the entire group, included "Our Living Bible," "Higher than the Heavens," "It's Time to Clap Our Hands," "Do Lord," and "Oh, Father Abraham."

A film strip, "The Good Book," ended the program, after which the youngsters took part in a graduation ceremony and sang "Good Night Everyone." A benediction ended the service. Following the benediction, parents and friends were welcomed at a showing in the church of craftwork completed by the youngsters at the school.

Baby Hospitalized Despite Mother's Religious Protest

CINCINNATI (P)—Police took a seriously ill infant to General Hospital last night despite its mother's protests that her religion forbade medical treatment.

A doctor said the youngster, Earl Peters, 11 months old, was in an oxygen tent, suffering from pneumonia and malnutrition.

Police said an anonymous telephone call sent officers to the apartment of the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Peters.

Sgt. Charles Black said he found the child in "dire condition" and urged Mrs. Peters to have him hospitalized, but that she refused after consulting her minister.

The officers took the infant anyway, after consulting the Hamilton County prosecutor's office.

Mrs. Peters attended services last night at the Church of God of the Union Association, where she reported, "My baby's in the Lord's hand just like it was before it left home."

If the petitions are acted upon favorably by the commissioners, these petitions will undergo the same routine in being passed on to City Council.

There was no other action by the commissioners at their Monday session except on regular routine matters and approval of bills. Among the bills however two were for larger than usual amounts.

ONE BILL was for $6,215, from G. D. Baker and Sons, for 38,000 gallons of road surfacing material, now being applied on various county roads.

The other was from Sam Parrett, agent of record, on insurance on various county properties, covering fire and storm damage, to the amount of $3,748.83.

This is distributed by Parrett among the various eligible insurance agents carrying county policies. One man, the agent of record, handles all these by agreement among the agents, in order to eliminate unnecessary red tape for the commissioners.

Polio Clinic Set For Tuesday

First of Two Shots To Be Given Then

Preparations for the polio clinic to be held Tuesday from 10 a. m. until 2 p. m. in Fellowship Hall of Grace Methodist Church today were nearing completion.

Children from a year old through 15 years of age and pregnant women are to get the first of two Salk vaccine shots at this clinic.

Another clinic is to be held at the same place on July 17 to give the second shots.

It was noted that no third shots are to be given.

More than 700 boys and girls, who were in the second and third grades of the city and county schools last year, already have received their two shots, a preventative measure against paralytic polio.

Because there are several types of infantile paralysis, it was said that any boys or girls in the eligible age bracket who have had polio should go to the clinic, also.

The clinic is being made possible through the cooperative efforts of the county Health Department and the Fayette County Medical Assn.

FOUR PHYSICIANS have volunteered to administer the vaccine: Dr. James Rose 10 until 11 a. m.; Dr. Robert Woodman 11 a. m. until noon; Dr. Joseph Herbert noon until 1 p. m. and Dr. Marvin Roszmann 1 until 2 p. m.

From the Health Department there will be at the clinic Dr. Benton V. D. Scott, health commissioner; John Todd, sanitarian; Mrs. Doris Diffendall, clerk, who will keep the records, and two nurses, Miss Ruth Weintjes and Miss Gretchen Darlington.

From members of the Professional Nurses Assn., who also have volunteered to help are Mrs. William Lucas, Mrs. Corrine Sperry, Mrs. Marvin Roszmann and Mrs. Frank Sollars.

Wayne Bower, Tom Mark, James Hutton and Rollo Marchant have agreed to put aside their personal affairs for the four hours to help guide the children through the clinic.

It was said at the Health Department that medical authorities have agreed that Salk vaccine can be administered in the summer with safety. One exception was noted: children who are acutely ill (with fever or rash of any sort) should not be vaccinated.

County Youths Win In Grange Contest

Janet Knedler and David Shirk, both of Leesburg, topped a pair of second places as representatives of Fayette County at the district Grange talent competition held at the McAdams Grange near Wilmington.

The two, both of whom demonstrated their talents as singers, won the second places in competition against the tops in talent from seven counties in this area.

By their triumph, the pair will serve as alternates to the state contest, to be held later this summer.

Janet won a second place with a vocal solo and Janet and David together won a second as a duet team. Miss Martha Ellis of Leesburg played piano accompaniment for their numbers.

Both youngsters are members of the Forest Shade Grange.

Victim of Accident Released from Hospital

Charles Morris, 24, Columbus, who was taken to Memorial Hospital here after his car wrecked near Madison Mills about 5 a. m. Saturday, has been released. Most severe injury was to his foot.

Mrs. Morris also was injured, but she was not hospitalized.

Program Ends Bible School

'Graduation' Held At Staunton Church

A varied program of singing and recitations climaxed a week of Bible School for youngsters at the Staunton Methodist Church. The program was held Sunday evening in the church.

Prelude to the program was played by Mrs. Mary Black, after which the whole congregation sang a hymn and joined in prayer. The youngsters opened their part of the program with the Pledge to the Bible and the Pledge to the Flag.

All youngsters joined in singing the song "B-B-L-E," after which the beginners presented a Bible drill. The junior group offered a collection of Biblical recitations as their part of the program.

Songs, sung by the entire group, included "Our Living Bible," "Higher than the Heavens," "It's Time to Clap Our Hands," "Do Lord," and "Oh, Father Abraham."

A film strip, "The Good Book," ended the program, after which the youngsters took part in a graduation ceremony and sang "Good Night Everyone." A benediction ended the service. Following the benediction, parents and friends were welcomed at a showing in the church of craftwork completed by the youngsters at the school.

Bull Pup Reveals Sound Knowledge Of When to Swim

UPPER SANDUSKY — Candy, like most Boston bull pups, can swim just fine, thank you. In fact, human beings could take a few safety lessons from her.

When Dr. R. M. Rossell went out of town Sunday, he left Candy locked up in the basement. While he was gone, an unusually heavy rain left some basements here with several feet of water.

A neighbor, Jim Mason, checked Dr. Rossell's basement and found Candy on a divan floating in five feet of water. No amount of coaxing would get her to swim to the stairs.

Mason discovered the reason when he tried to wade toward her. The water was apparently electrically charged — the flood had affected the home's electrical wiring.

Candy's moral: Never swim in water until you know it's safe.

Trio Arrested For Burglarizing Home

Harold Null, 20, and William L. Null, 22, and a 16-year-old boy, were arrested at their homes here by Deputy Sheriff Fred Heinzelman and Juvenile Probation Officer Dorah Morris of Ross County.

They were booked on a charge of forcibly entering the residence of William Saults, on the Dogtown Road west of Frankfort June 17 and stealing $125 from his pocketbook.

The adults were to be arraigned Monday in the court of Justice of the Peace Reed Cory of Frankfort and the juvenile's case will be handled by Juvenile Judge Kenneth T. Stevens.

Demonstration Agent

ing his own college work at Ohio State University.

Mrs. Cunningham will be the first home demonstration agent that the County has had for some time. Since March 15, Mrs. Jess Crago of the Miami Trace Road has been serving as a substitute for the regular agent, and prior to that the office was staffed only by a part-time agent.

Mrs. Crago will continue work at the office long enough to get her "replacement" oriented, and to help the office out during the busy County Fair season.

property owner petitions have been received by the commissioners and a hearing date for any protests before that body has been set for July 9, the Kaufman hearing at 11 a. m. and the Lipschutz and Dice petition at 10 a. m.

If the petitions are acted upon favorably by the commissioners, these petitions will undergo the same routine in being passed on to City Council.

There was no other action by the commissioners at their Monday session except on regular routine matters and approval of bills. Among the bills however two were for larger than usual amounts.

ONE BILL was for $6,215, from G. D. Baker and Sons, for 38,000 gallons of road surfacing material, now being applied on various county roads.

The other was from Sam Parrett, agent of record, on insurance on various county properties, covering fire and storm damage, to the amount of $3,748.83.

This is distributed by Parrett among the various eligible insurance agencies carrying county policies. One man, the agent of record, handles all these by agreement among the agents, in order to eliminate unnecessary red tape for the commissioners.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Ada is 27 and I am 29 and we have been married eight years. We have three children—ages 3 years, 2 years, and 10 months—and a fourth is expected.

My wife is a wonderful person, as freehearted as a girl can be, and I love her very much. But right now she is peeved at me. The reason? Well, on Friday nights after work I stop downtown for a drink with the fellows (we can't afford bars so we buy a bottle and go to our building) and sometimes we play cards.

I never lose money to speak of, and never use house money or neglect my bills; and never get drunk. But I stay pretty late, and when I do Ada gets very cold to me. I believe a man is entitled to a night out; and a wife the same (with a limit on time).

Ada won't go anywhere if I ask her to; says it is too much trouble, taking the children, and I admit it is, on subways, etc. But it is the only way we can go, as we live far out, in a low-rent area, far from people we know. It is pretty lonesome for us—though I go to work and see people every day—and a strain on Ada, who never gets away, nor has a minute to herself.

Ada is an extra special person, and when I have extra money, I always give her some, plus her regular money. But she always buys for the house, or the children or me, never for herself—always wants to help me, with bills, etc. Maybe I am not a good manager of money, and maybe not a good head of the house, but I do my best.

S.Y. It is my impression that you are a pretty nice fellow, but you have a bad conscience about Ada—and rightly so, it seems. The fact is, you aren't giving your best to her or the marriage. You aren't putting her happiness, or her welfare, or her companionship first, in your leisure time—which is the only time you have to share with the family, really.

That's why Ada freezes up, when you come in from a late night out with the fellows. She feels taken for granted, rated second-best, in comparison to a bottle, a deck of cards and some workaday cronies of yours. Is that intelligent treatment of a sensitive, warmhearted girl whom you really love?

Ada is soon to have her fourth child in four years. Moreover, she has been under mounting strain of loneliness (a morale-wrecker), and quasi-neglect on her husband's part, since she gave up her job to be a full-time wife. Thus gradually her emotional health is fraying out.

Ada's peeve at you, her tendency to retire and weep, and her attitude that social effort isn't worthwhile, are symptoms of emotional depression, which sneaks up on a burdened person who has been too long out of touch with meaningful friendship and true companionship. The housewife in this condition needs deep help, in the form of sympathetic understanding, and opportunities forcefully provided, for "taking a break" from isolated relentless routine.

Inasmuch as you need detailed leadership, in learning how to be a good husband in the special circumstances, I advise you to discuss your concern about Ada with a staff counselor at the Family Service Agency in your area. It will be greatly to your credit to make this effort on her behalf.

M.H. Mary Haworth counsels through her column, not by mail or personal interview. Write to her in care of this newspaper.

Two WHS Youths Camp Counselors

Tom Swain, one of the key-stones of last winter's WHS basketball team and bass drummer in the band, and Doug Rider, a member of the band, are now at Camp Campbell Guard near Hamilton for the summer.

Tom is a counselor and assistant swimming instructor. This is his fourth year at the camp. He started out as an assistant counselor.

Doug, who is there for the first time as assistant counselor.

The boys are to remain at the camp almost until time for school to reopen in the fall.

Before he comes home, however, he is to go to Camp Nelson Dodd, near Mt. Vernon, as a delegate from the Hi-Y club here, and then return to Camp Campbell Guard for a short period when crippled children from the southwest Ohio area are there.

Police Find Honey Of Traffic Problem

PAINESVILLE (H)—The intersection of 9th and State Streets was a beehive of activity at noon Saturday.

Several thousand bees swarmed into the intersection and following their queen, alighted on the traffic light, obscuring traffic signals.

A short time later, the bees buzzed to the storm drain.

Dan Hart of Painesville, a passerby who keeps bees at home, donned his protective headgear and long gloves, got an empty beehive and waded in after the queen.

Tangled in Line, Fisherman, 15, Dies

CIRCLEVILLE (H)—A 15-year-old Columbus fisherman became tangled in his fishing line, slipped from the muddy bank of the Scioto River here Saturday and drowned in a 20-foot hole without once rising to the surface.

The victim was Reeser Overton. His 12-year-old brother, Nathaniel, made a futile attempt to locate him in the murky water. The body was found an hour later and taken to a funeral home in Columbus.

Weather Bureau Getting Set For Autumn Hurricane Season

By RICHARD S. BLOCH

(Central Press Association)

Will New England and the North Atlantic states be hit again this autumn by the screaming winds of destruction-dealing hurricanes? The United States Weather Bureau is getting ready, just in case.

The memories of Carol, Edna and Hazel in 1954 and Connie, Diane and Irene in 1955 are still very real for those who lost loved ones or property during the storms which caused hundreds of casualties and more than a billion dollars worth of damage.

Something has been happening in the upper atmosphere which makes Weather Bureau officials think that the area may be in for more of the same. The usual hurricane that comes north is shoved out to sea by a strong west wind somewhere around Cape Hatteras, North Carolina.

Since the middle 1930s, however, there has been a shifting tendency in the upper level air currents along the eastern coastal United States, which can cause hurricanes to roar toward land and upward along the coast toppling trees, bowling over houses, tearing down power lines and piling up huge storm tides which sometimes cut off or completely cover low-lying beaches and islands.

Loss of life in these catastrophes has been reduced by the alert forecasting of the Weather Bureau and the prompt evacuations handled by the Coast Guard, Red Cross, Civil Defense and police.

THIS YEAR officials are getting ready for a new crop of hurricanes which have been respectively dubbed: Anna, Betsy, Carla, Dora, Ethel, Flossy, Greta, Hattie, Inez, Judith, Kitty, Laura, Molly, Nona, Odette, Paula, Quenby, Rhoda, Sadie, Teresa, Ursel, Vesta, Winny, Xina, Yola and Zenda.

Long before these large revolving storms are born in the Caribbean or tropical Atlantic, improvements for communicating Weather Bureau advisories and hurricane warnings will be put into effect for the people in New England and North Atlantic states.

Press rooms will be set up in Weather Bureau offices in Boston and other New England cities so that the newspaper, radio and television reporters will be able to obtain the latest information on approaching hurricanes quickly.

The public, in turn, then will have adequate time to prepare for the big blow. Many private industries, public utilities and government agencies will obtain weather information more quickly through a hook-up with local weather teleprinter circuits.

THE WEATHER Bureau wants every person in a hurricane area to know what to do to protect life and property. Pamphlets and newspaper articles are being prepared that will instruct citizens to get in extra food that can be eaten without cooking, to keep the radio or television on for the latest advisories, to sterilize the bathtub and fill it with water for drinking purposes (in case the water supply is cut off), to have flashlights in working order and to heed the other precautions.

Increased use of radar to determine the speed and direction of fast-moving hurricanes will be in use by autumn. The Air Weather Service of the Air Force has installed a unit atop the 600-foot Blue Hill observatory near Boston.

From this vantage point a complete picture of storms can be secured up to a distance of 350 miles. Radar equipment at Cape Hatteras, North Carolina, will be in range of all storms headed for New England.

Putting On Ox Roast Is No Easy Job, Legion Members Here Learning

Putting on an ox roast is an all-day proposition.

If you doubt that, just ask some of the men who have been delegated to get ready for the one the Hughey post of the American Legion here is planning for the feature of Thursday evening's stag party at the Fairground.

Professor Larry Kunkle, an ox-roasting expert at Ohio State University, is coming here to take over the role of chief chef.

But, before he ever gets here a lot of back-tiring work will have been done to set the stage for those who have never seen an ox roast.

First of all, a pit 10 feet long, 3 feet wide and 3 feet deep is to be dug near the Merchants Building by the Legion committee. Prof. Kunkle stipulated that the walls of the pit would have to be both firm and straight.

Next enough wood to fill the pit two and a half times will have to be provided. The wood, he noted, should be about 6 inches in diameter and suggested old fence posts as suitable.

Near the pit, the Legionnaires will have to have ready two wheelbarrows of sand, six fence posts or 5-foot lengths of iron pipe, two long handle shovels and enough corrugated metal roofing to cover the pit with some to spare around the edges.

THE FIRE is to be started in the pit, Prof. Kunkle said, at 3 a. m. Thursday morning and kept burning for three hours to form a bed of red hot coals. At 6 o'clock, he is to place 300 pounds of beef in the pit. He is to bring the meat with him.

From then until 5:30 p. m. there will be relatively little to do but watch and wait until the pit is opened and the roast ox meat pulled out.

Serving is to start at 6 o'clock. Russ Whited, who will be the commander of the post here by that time (the installation of new officers is set for Tuesday night), said Prof. Kunkle thought 450 men could be served with the roast ox and the rest of the menu in an hour.

Whited said there was no way of knowing how many would come to the for-met-only affair, but expressed the hope that there would be more than 450. He was confident there would be enough to eat.

These ox roasts, sometimes called beef barbecues, are not new to Fayette County. They have been featured at several Hereford Association sales here in recent years.

NEITHER are the Legion stag parties without precedent. That is one of the reasons Legionnaires are anticipating a big crowd. They are among the post's fund-raising ventures—and always have been successful.

Proceeds from this one, Whited said, will go mostly into the maintenance of the Legion Hall on N. Fayette St.

Last year, the second floor was redecorated and some remodeling done. This year, the Legionnaires hope the ox roast will make it financially possible for them to fix up the floors on the first floor.

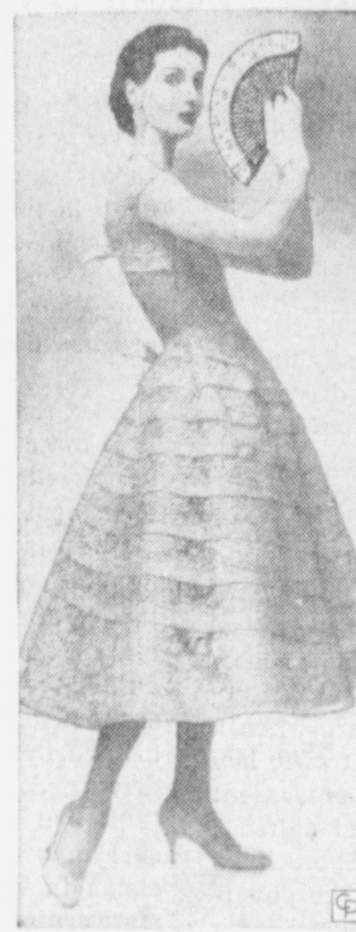

The gates are to open at 4 p. m. for the affair—in time for the curious to see the pit opened and the roasted ox meat brought out. No time for it to end has been set.

CLEVELAND (H)—Because the men who man the tugboats in Great Lakes harbors are on strike, lake freighters have to negotiate the kinky Cuyahoga River on their own. And yesterday the 299-ton tanker Pleiades got stuck on Collision Bend.

Her stern was on a sand bar in the east bank and her bow on the west bank. More than an hour later the crew got her bow loose by means of cables, but her stern remained stuck. She is loaded with 40,000 barrels of gasoline.

CRAIG'S

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Ada is 27 and I am 29 and we have been married eight years. We have three children—ages 3 years, 2 years, and 10 months — and a fourth is expected.

My wife is a wonderful person, as freehearted as a girl can be, and I love her very much. But right now she is peeved at me. The reason? Well, on Friday nights after work I stop downtown for a drink with the fellows (we can't afford bars so we buy a bottle and go to our building) and sometimes we play cards.

I never lose money to speak of, and never use house money or neglect my bills; and never get drunk. But I stay pretty late, and when I do Ada gets very cold to me. I believe a man is entitled to a night out; and a wife the same (with a limit on time).

Ada won't go anywhere if I ask her too; says it is too much trouble, taking the children, and I admit it is, on subways, etc. But it is the only way we can go, as we live far out, in a low-rent area, far from people we know. It is pretty lonesome for us—though I go to work and see people every day—and a strain on Ada, who never gets away, nor has a minute to herself.

Ada is an extra special person, and when I have extra money, I always give her some, plus her regular money. But she always buys for the house, or the children or me, never for herself—always wants to help me, with bills, etc. Maybe I am not a good manager of money, and maybe not a good head of the house, but I do my best.

S.Y.: It is my impression that you are a pretty nice fellow, but you have a bad conscience about Ada — and rightly so, it seems. The fact is, you aren't giving your best to her or the marriage. You aren't putting her happiness, or her welfare, or her companionship first, in your leisure time—which is the only time you have to share with the family, really.

That's why Ada freezes up, when you come in from a late night out with the fellows. She feels taken for granted, rated second-best, in comparison to a bottle, a deck of cards and some workaday cronies of yours. Is that intelligent treatment of a sensitive, warmhearted girl whom you really love?

Ada is soon to have her fourth child in four years. Moreover, she has been under mounting strain of loneliness (a morale-wrecker), and quasi-neglect on her husband's part, since she gave up her job to be a full-time wife. Thus gradually her emotional health is fraying out.

Ada's peeve at you, her tendency to retire and weep, and her attitude that social effort isn't worthwhile, are symptoms of emotional depression, which sneaks up on a burdened person who has been too long out of touch with meaningful friendship and true companionship. The housewife in this condition needs deep help, in the form of sympathetic understanding, and opportunities forcefully provided, for "taking a break" from isolated relentless routine.

Inasmuch as you need detailed leadership, in learning how to be a good husband in the special circumstances, I advise you to discuss your concern about Ada with a staff counselor at the Family Service Agency in your area. It will be greatly to your credit to make this effort on her behalf.

M.H.: Mary Haworth counsels through her column, not by mail or personal interview. Write to her in care of this newspaper.

Dan Hart of Painesville, a passerby who keeps bees at home, donned his protective headgear and long gloves, got an empty beehive and waded in after the queen.

Weather Bureau Getting Set For Autumn Hurricane Season

By RICHARD S. BLOCH
(Central Press Association)

Will New England and the North Atlantic states be hit again this autumn by the screaming winds of destruction-dealing hurricanes? The United States Weather Bureau is getting ready, just in case.

The memories of Carol, Edna and Hazel in 1954 and Connie, Diane and Ione in 1955 are still very real for those who lost loved ones or property during the storms which caused hundreds of casualties and more than a billion dollars worth of damage.

Something has been happening in the upper atmosphere which makes Weather Bureau officials think that the area may be in for more of the same. The usual hurricane that comes north is shoved out to sea by a strong west wind somewhere around Cape Hatteras, North Carolina.

Since the middle 1930s, however, there has been a shifting tendency in the upper level air currents along the eastern coastal United States, which can cause hurricanes to roar toward land and upward along the coast toppling trees, bowling over houses, tearing down power lines and piling up huge storm tides which sometimes cut off or completely cover low-lying beaches and islands.

How Many Motorists Favor Safety Measures?

Here and there occasionally most of us hear criticism of police, sheriff office deputies or highway patrolmen who arrest motorists for speeding.

We believe that all of us should be thankful for these officers who make an honest effort to enforce the law and stop some of the wild driving that we see far too often.

While everyone is willing to say that he or she is opposed to reckless driving on streets and highways, there often are arguments which make us wonder just how much law enforcement a majority of motorists want.

It will be noticed that when this city, county or any locality clamps down hard on the speeders and drunks, there seemingly, with few exceptions, is an arousal of resentment and remarks indicating personal outrage. It is very rare when a motorist is caught breaking a traffic law that he or she accepts court punishment without some outbreaks of bad spirit.

Attention from many newspapers has been directed to the action of the governor of Connecticut, A. A. Ribicoff, who has run straight into a political storm in his state because he dared to tighten control over highway troublemakers. The first of this year he ordered state patrolmen and traffic magistrates (all of whom are appointed by him) to deal harshly with those caught exceeding speed limits. He told the judges to suspend driving licenses of convicted speeders for 30 days on a first offense, for 60 days on a second offense.

The results have been phenomenal. In six months 4,500 motorists have lost their licenses, and many thousands of dollars have been collected in fines. Police officials say there has been a noticeable drop in the number of speed merchants on Connecticut roadways and, more importantly, highway deaths are down 11 percent. (Incidentally, a similar record has been made in Tennessee, where the state safety commissioner has marshalled the entire state patrol into a giant task force, massing troops along heavily travelled highways for "saturation enforcement" for brief periods.)

It is reported that in Connecticut stormy public meetings are being held attacking the governor's program with speakers declaring that he has exceeded his executive authority in directing the city courts to suspend drivers licenses and that he is arbitrarily denying residents the right to drive and to earn a livelihood without a "full and fair hearing." (Political pressure may be responsible, too, for the decision in Tennessee to plainly mark all state cruisers rather than use a few "camouflaged" patrol cars.)

However, so far as outsiders are concerned, it is depressing that the matter of reducing highway death tolls should be subjected to political wrangling. It indicates that many people — and voters — really do not want strict enforcement of motoring rules. It underscores the sobering truth in Gov. Ribicoff's declaration "that people won't slow down to save lives, but they will slow down to save their licenses."

U. S. Men — Beau Brummels

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Hey, Joe, you wear your pants too long.

Your coat sleeve is too long also.

But in spite of that, Joe, you are the male peacock of the world and best dressed man on earth.

Who says so? Michael Daroff says so. Daroff is president of a Philadelphia firm which this year expects to turn out 900,000 men's suits and sport outfits.

Many an American wife thinks her husband is downright skillful when it comes to taking out the garbage or drying the dishes, but she complains that too often he looks like a walking gunnysack. When she thinks of a well dressed man, she thinks of a Continental type, a suave European.

Daroff, who just returned from an extended visit to Europe, says this is all nonsense, that American wives are married to Beau Brummels and don't know it.

"They should see how European men really dress," he said. "Stylewise, they are miles behind the times. The fashion center for men's clothing isn't over there. It's here.

"American men are the best dressed in the world."

Daroff said a proof of this is that European men, who tend to look down on American husbands as kitchen slaves to their wives, do envy their clothing.

"They are hungry for American styles," he said. "A 'Made in America' label on men's clothing has come to mean comfort and fashion leadership on the Continent.

"They'd all wear American suits if they could afford them, but they can't because of high import duties and taxes. On the other hand if European manufacturers shipped over here the same style of clothing they make for their own people, we couldn't sell them. We'd have to give them away. Some of their styles are the same they were showing in 1939."

Maroff, who is as full of statistics as he is of sartorial patriotism, gave these further facts and style commentaries:

"The somber charcoal look is on the way out in America. It was too old mannish. A brighter gray, and of course blue, will be the favorite colors this fall.

"Double breasted suits are coming back. So is the squarer shaped shoulder.

"What are the most common mistakes men make in their clothing? They wear their pants too long—they should just reach the shoe top, not break over the instep — and their coatsleeves, too. At least a half inch of shirt cuff should protrude from the coatsleeve.

"About 51 per cent of American husbands are accompanied by their wives when buying a suit."

Simple Li'l Abner Philosophy

By George Sokolsky

Everybody comes up with ideas and there can be no objection to that if the ideas are of value. Thomas J. Watson of the International Business Machines Corporation put signs all over his factories and offices containing the single word, "Think." His employees were supposed to think, but what about? Were they to think about business machines, world problems, or the evil of taxes?

It would truly be wonderful if everybody had a mind like Aristotle's and could think out all sorts of problems, but even Aristotle got twisted when he tried to think in the biologic sciences about which he was more mythological than scientific. On the other hand, Einstein thought brilliantly in the natural sciences, but was a dud in the realm of politics and the American Constitution.

So when someone comes up with the idea of a people-to-people diplomacy and brings everything down to the simplicities of Li'l Abner Yokum of Dogpatch, U. S. A., the prospect of confusion becomes increasingly great because obviously thought can only be generated by knowledge and most of us know very little about the facts of life which make others seem to be so queer.

Why, for instance, are so many Italians communists? And that bothers many Americans, some of whom thought that the best way to solve the problem would be to load Italy down with financial and military aid, then all Italians would be grateful to the United States and they would forthwith become capitalists. In all this "Thinking" about Italy, such thinkers forget that were Socialism objectionable to Italians there could never have been a Mussolini, who was a Socialist, the associate for many years of Angelica Balabanov. They have called Mussolini a Fascist so long that they have forgotten that Fascism like Nazism was an offshoot of Hegelianism plus Marxism, and that the Italian people welcomed Mussolini's brand and lived under it for 21 years until Italy was defeated in war by American troops and then Mussolini was murdered. It is probably correct to say that Mussolini was not murdered for having wrong ideas but for being defeated. The worst that can happen to a politician is to be defeated.

So, the thinkers worry about France and wonder why the French people seem not to give ainker's damn about what happens to their country for which the Americans fought and bled in two wars.

The idea again was to pour hundreds of millions of dollars into France, to make France the capital of NATO, and to make up in American aid what the French people default in taxes. And then the French would all be pro-American. We now grow very angry with the French because they take our money but go away in their own way just the same. They have no sense of gratitude.

What we seem to forget is that France has more or less been at war since 1789; that Napoleon built an empire on the bodies of dead Frenchmen; that Germany invaded France and occupied all or large parts of France in 1870, 1914 and 1940; that France is now a battlefield between Soviet Russia and the United States and must, by any logic, be destroyed — physically destroyed — in the next war; and that the French do not care at all for what they see ahead of them. Also, the French had built a nest-egg for themselves in Morocco and Algeria and that just as the French were let down in French Indo-China by their allies and associates, so they are now being let down by Great Britain and the United States in their North African problems because "colonialism" has become unpopular in the democratic countries.

So the average Frenchman says that he hates war and taxes and all he wants is to be left to his own devices and that he can eat bread and cheese and drink wine under one faker as under another, meaning his own politicians. No Li'l Abner diplomacy, no pen friendships, no people-to-people propaganda will make very much difference as long as the prospect for the future is war and taxes. The Frenchman says that he will be dead and buried before the politicians stop stealing and before peace comes to mankind, therefore he wants to live while he is alive. It is an idea.

Diet and Health Climate Has Effect On Human Food Need

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

Maybe you don't need quite as much food value as some doctors seem to think.

Climate and work-saving devices may be reducing the food needs of many Americans. At least this appears to be the case in Texas.

Caloric Values

Dr. Florence I. Scouler, dean of the School of Home Economics of the North Texas State College at Denton, studied the caloric values of the diets of 61 young women living in the school's Home Management House.

She found the average number of calories consumed each day by each girl amounted to 1,981. Average age of the women was 19.6 years.

Now this daily caloric average is considerably under that recommended by the National Research Council. For girls in the 16 to 20 year age bracket the Council recommends a daily allowance of 2,400 calories. For 25-year-old women it is 2,300.

The 61 girls taking part in the study were not trying to lose weight nor were they trying to gain it. The girls selected their own diets. Such items as fluid milk, sugar as such in beverages, and candy and carbonated beverages, and candy and carbonated beverages, were permitted whenever desired.

All of the girls had some fluid milk during the five-day study. And only three of them had no carbonated beverages or sugar during the study.

While the total daily caloric intake, including composite foods, milk, sugar and beverages, ranged from 1,534 to 3,000 calories, the average was under 2,000.

Heavier and Taller

In general, the girls were heavier and taller than the National Research Council averages. Yet they consumed fewer calories. Dr. Scouler says the study:

"Suggests that Texas climate and labor-saving devices have lessened the caloric requirement of these young college women." Perhaps the full needs of many of us should be re-evaluated in the light of more extensive use of labor-saving devices, shorter working hours and more leisure time.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

S. M. Can a person have amebic infection of the liver?

Answer: Yes. This is a very serious complication of amebic dysentery.

The ameba often travels from the blood stream to the liver and may form large abscesses which may even penetrate into the chest cavity.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The leadership of the American Communist party has confessed to a series of damaging mistakes and bad guesses, besides conceding the party looked silly in thinking Stalin was infallible.

These mistakes include a dumb reliance on Karl Marx without port in forming the Progressive party in 1948, and repeated predictions of war and depression.

Some results: The party has lost heavily in membership and in influence in politics and organized labor; it hasn't been able to win any "mass" support; and it has isolated itself from the main stream of American life.

The admissions came from Eugene Dennis, the party's real boss, and Max Weiss, its educational director, in reports to the Central Committee. Those reports have been printed in pamphlet form.

The reports were made after Russian Communist party boss Khrushchev had listed the mistakes and crimes he said were committed under Stalin.

Dennis said the party had neglected work in the big unions, had backed away from united fronts, which it is now seeking, did not appreciate until a couple of years ago the new world role of the Asians; had erred in making membership qualifications too tight, was wrong in lumping the "Eisenhower forces" and McCarthyism together; and was obviously away off in predicting imminent wars and depressions ever since 1945.

How did all this happen? Dennis blamed some of it on pressure and prosecution by the government. But he said, in effect, the party was so eager to lead the masses it forgot to notice the masses were going the other way.

But Weiss said the Communists will have to "rediscover America" and begin to study its "realities" and struggles. Taking his cue from Khrushchev's revelations about the extent of one-man rule in Russia, Weiss said:

"The general membership of the American Communist party has never been able to have a say in the big decisions, that these were handed down from the top. The members ought to be able to discuss problems too, he said.

The question not answered by the Dennis-Weiss statements was why they suddenly thought the members ought to be consulted a little only after Khrushchev said collective leadership was better than one-man rule.

As to the Progressive party, set up in 1948 with Henry Wallace as its presidential candidate, Dennis said:

"I believe it was erroneous and harmful to support the formation of the Progressive party as a third party." He said he had to assume a lot of the blame for this himself.

But then, he said, the party made another mistake in thinking after the 1948 elections, that the Progressive party still had a future.

The Communists have had their eye on a third party—a united front or labor-farmer party, steered by them but not under their name—ever since 1924 when they tried and failed.

Stalin suggested it for this country in 1928. Earl Browder wanted it when he was party boss in 1935. And now Dennis in his report hints at that kind of party in the future but not right away.

Weiss blamed blind reliance on Marx's "theory of economic crisis" for the wrong guesses about depressions between 1945 and 1954. "Everything was very simple," he said, if you followed Marx.

But the trouble, he said, was in the difference between the present world and the 19th century world of Marx. Conditions have changed and facts too, he said. And Marx was making predictions based on 19th century facts.

"We must," Weiss said, "do the same thing Marx did in his day. We must study the facts." Up-to-date ones, that is.

Even Without any Strike, Metal Shortages Expected

CLEVELAND (AP) — Material shortages are expected to continue to curtail production in the metal-working industry. "Steel" magazine said today.

"Most serious shortages expected are in steel products, copper, nickel and aluminum," the weekly said.

Except for that shortage and the possibility of a prolonged steel strike, "Steel" foresees a big six months ahead for the industry, the nation's largest.

In the first six months of 1956, the metal working industry had a sales volume of 67.5 billion dollars, a record high for any six months period. The previous high was 65 billion for the previous six months. "Steel" having its optimism on an industrywide survey directed at 5,000 plants, looks for a continued boom in the industry and expects the sales to be up 5 per cent to 70.5 billion dollars.

All predictions are based on general labor peace, the publication noted. "A long steel strike could dispel the optimism." Metalworking executives queried in the survey expect these things to go up in the second half of the year.

Employment will be up 2.8 per cent, selling prices 3.5 per cent, manufacturing costs 5 per cent, profits 2 per cent and manufacturing capacity 2 per cent.

Meanwhile, steelmaking operations slipped to its lowest point since last September, declining 1.5 percentage points to 95.5 per cent of the rated national capacity. Executives believe there may be further dips in production during July and August because of vacations, warm weather and other seasonal factors. But they expect the final four months to be strong.

"Steel" finished steel price index held steady at $128.98 a net ton and the scrap price index was firm at $46 a gross ton. This is the first time the scrap price hasn't moved since it hit a peak of $55.3 in the week ended April 25.

District production rates included declines at Cincinnati of 4 points, to 88.5, at Cleveland of 2 points, to 99, and at Wheeling of 3 points, to 97.5 from revised rates. Youngstown advanced 6 points to 101.

How Many Motorists Favor Safety Measures?

Here and there occasionally most of us hear criticism of police, sheriff office deputies or highway patrolmen who arrest motorists for speeding.

We believe that all of us should be thankful for these officers who make an honest effort to enforce the law and stop some of the wild driving that we see far too often.

While everyone is willing to say that he or she is opposed to reckless driving on streets and highways, there often are arguments which make us wonder just how much law enforcement a majority of motorists want.

It will be noticed that when this city, county or any locality clamps down hard on the speeders and drunks, there seemingly, with few exceptions, is an arousal of resentment and remarks indicating personal outrage. It is very rare when a motorist is caught breaking a traffic law that he or she accepts court punishment without some outbreaks of bad spirit.

Attention from many newspapers has been directed to the action of the governor of Connecticut, A. A. Ribicoff, who has run straight into a political storm in his state because he dared to tighten control over highway troublemakers. The first of this year he ordered state patrolmen and traffic magistrates (all of whom are appointed by him) to deal harshly with those caught exceeding speed limits. He told the judges to suspend driving licences of convicted speeders for 30 days on a first offense, for 60 days on a second offense.

The results have been phenomenal. In six months 4,500 motorists have lost their licenses, and many thousands of dollars have been collected in fines. Police officials say there has been a noticeable drop in the number of speed merchants on Connecticut roadways and, more importantly, highway deaths are down 11 per cent. (Incidentally, a similar record has been made in Tennessee, where the state safety commissioner has marshalled the entire state patrol into a giant task force, massing troopers along heavily travelled highways for "saturation enforcement" for brief periods.)

It is reported that in Connecticut stormy public meetings are being held attacking the governor's program with speakers declaring that he has exceeded his executive authority in directing the city courts to suspend drivers licences and that he is arbitrarily denying residents the right to drive and to earn a livelihood without a "full and fair hearing." (Political pressure may be responsible, too, for the decision in Tennessee to plainly mark all state cruisers rather than use a few "camouflaged" patrol cars.)

However, so far as outsiders are concerned, it is depressing that the matter of reducing highway death tolls should be subjected to political wrangling. It indicates that many people — and voters — really do not want strict enforcement of motorizing rules. It underscores the sobering truth in Gov. Ribicoff's declaration "that people won't slow down to save lives, but they will slow down to save their licenses."

U. S. Men — Beau Brummels

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Hey, Joe, you wear your pants too long. Your coat sleeve is too long also.

But in spite of that, Joe, you are the male peacock of the world and best dressed man on earth.

Who says so? Michael Daroff says so. Daroff is president of a Philadelphia firm which this year expects to turn out 900,000 men's suits and sport outfits.

Many an American wife thinks her husband is downright skillful when it comes to taking out the garbage or drying the dishes, but she complains that too often he looks like a walking gunnysack. When she thinks of a well dressed man, she thinks of a Continental type, a suave European.

Daroff, who just returned from an extended visit to Europe, says this is all nonsense, that American wives are married to Beau Brummels and don't know it. "They should see how European men really dress," he said. "Stylewise, they are miles behind the times. The fashion center for men's clothing isn't over there. It's here.

"American men are the best dressed in the world."

Daroff said a proof of this is that European men, who tend to look down on American husbands as kitchen slaves to their wives, do envy them their clothing.

"They are hungry for American styles," he said. "A 'Made in America' label on men's clothing has come to mean comfort and fashion leadership on the Continent.

"They'd all wear American suits if they could afford them, but they can't because of high import duties and taxes. On the other hand if European manufacturers shipped over here the same style of clothing they make for their own people, we couldn't sell them. We'd have to give them away. Some of their styles are the same they were showing in 1939."

Maroff, who is as full of statistics as he is of sartorial patriotism, gave these further facts and style conjectures:

"The somber charcoal look is on the way out in America. It was too old mannish. A brighter gray, and of course blue, will be the favorite colors this fall.

"Double breasted suits are coming back. So is the squarer shaped shoulder.

"What are the most common mistakes men make in their clothing? They wear their pants too long—they should just reach the shoe top, not break over the instep — and their coatsleeves, too. At least a half inch of shirt cuff should protrude from the coatsleeve.

"About 51 per cent of American husbands are accompanied by their wives when buying a suit."

Diet and Health Climate Has Effect On Human Food Need

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

Maybe you don't need quite as much food value as some doctors seem to think.

Climate and work-saving devices may be reducing the food needs of many Americans. At least this appears to be the case in Texas.

Caloric Values

Dr. Florence I. Scoular, dean of the School of Home Economics of the North Texas State College at Denton, studied the caloric values of the diets of 61 young women living in the school's Home Management House.

She found the average number of calories consumed each day by each girl amounted to 1,381. Average age of the women was 19.6 years.

Now this daily caloric average is considerably under that recommended by the National Research Council. For girls in the 16 to 20 year age bracket the Council recommends a daily allowance of 2,400 calories. For 25-year-old women it is 2,300.

Simple Li'l Abner Philosophy

By George Sokolsky

Everybody comes up with ideas and there can be no objection to that if the ideas are of value. Thomas J. Watson of the International Business Machines Corporation put signs all over his factories and offices containing the single word, "Think." His employees were supposed to think, but what about? Were they to think about business machines, world problems, or the evil of taxes?

It would truly be wonderful if everybody had a mind like Aristotle's and could think out all sorts of problems, but even Aristotle got twisted when he tried to think in the biologic sciences about which he was more mythological than scientific. On the other hand, Einstein thought brilliantly in the natural sciences, but was a dud in the realm of politics and the American Constitution.

So when someone comes up with the idea of a people-to-people diplomacy and brings everything down to the simplicities of Li'l Abner Yokum of Dogpatch, U. S. A., the prospect of confusion becomes increasingly great because obviously thought can only be generated by knowledge and most of us know very little about the facts of life which make others seem to be so queer.

Why, for instance, are so many Italians communists? And that bothers many Americans, some of whom thought that the best way to solve the problem would be to load Italy down with financial and military aid; then all Italians would be grateful to the United States and they would forthwith become capitalists. In all this "Thinking" about Italy, such thinkers forget that were Socialism objectionable to Italians there could never have been a Mussolini, who was a Socialist, the associate for many years of Angelica Balabanov. They have called Mussolini a Fascist so long that they have forgotten that Fascism like Nazism was an offshoot of Hegelianism plus Marxism, and that the Italian people welcomed Mussolini's brand and lived under it for 21 years until Italy was defeated in war by American troops and then Mussolini was murdered. It is probably correct to say that Mussolini was not murdered for having wrong ideas but for being defeated. The worst that can happen to a politician is to be defeated.

So, the thinkers worry about France and wonder why all sorts of problems, but even Aristotle got twisted when he tried to think in the biologic sciences about which he was more mythological than scientific. On the other hand, Einstein thought brilliantly in the natural sciences, but was a dud in the realm of politics and the American Constitution.

The idea again was to pour hundreds of millions of dollars into France, to make France the capital of NATO, and to make up in American aid what the French people default in taxes. And then the French would all be pro-American. We now grow very angry with the French because they take our money but go away in their own way just the same. They have no sense of gratitude.

What we seem to forget is that France has more or less been at war since 1789; that Napoleon built an empire on the bodies of dead Frenchmen; that Germany invaded France and occupied all or large parts of France in 1870, 1914 and 1940; that France is now a battlefield between Soviet Russia and the United States and must, by any logic, be destroyed — physically destroyed — in the next war; and that the French do not care at all for what they see ahead of them. Also, the French had built a nest-egg for themselves in Morocco and Algeria and that just as the French were let down in French Indo-China by their allies and associates, so they are now being let down by Great Britain and the United States in their North African problems because "colonialism" has become unpopular in the democratic countries.

So the average Frenchman says that he hates war and taxes and all he wants is to be left to his own devices and that he can eat bread and cheese and drink wine under one faker as under another, meaning his own politicians. No Li'l Abner diplomacy, no pen friendships, no people-to-people propaganda will make very much difference as long as the prospect for the future is war and taxes. The Frenchman says that he will be dead and buried before the politicians stop stealing and before peace comes to mankind, therefore he wants to live while he is alive. It is an idea.

Teen-age Jobs Cut Delinquency

Budget Bolstered
For Family, Too

By DEANE AND DAVID HELLER
(Central Press Association)
WASHINGTON — One of the most practical steps any community can take to cut down on juvenile delinquency during the summer vacation months is to help teen-agers who would like to work find suitable summer jobs.

That's the opinion of Department of Labor officials, who point out that more than nine million lively youngsters are on vacation this summer.

About three and a half million of these will find some kind of summer work, either part-time or full time.

However, there are a lot more who'd like to get summer jobs, the Labor officials say—but it's tough. The kids are young and inexperienced. A helping hand from civic groups and the communities in which they live could, undoubtedly, locate places for more of them.

There are plenty of other advantages for summer jobs for teen-agers, too, the Labor department points out. For one thing, with prices sky high and with the kids leaving the normal, healthy desire for money for clothes, good times and the like, a summer job can help ease the pinch on the family budget a lot.

PROBABLY most important, though, is the work experience the youngsters get. As every adult knows, working is a lot different from schooling. Having the youngsters get a taste of holding down a job, even a humble, temporary one, is about the finest kind of experience they can get.

How can civic-minded groups help the youngsters in their community find suitable summer work?

By way of answer, the department points out the experiences of an outstanding summer work program carried on during all of the summer months. It's jointly sponsored by the P.T.A., businessmen and school officials at Montgomery Blair High School in Silver Spring, Md., just across the District line from Washington, D. C.

This is the third year that Montgomery Blair has operated a free job placement service for students. More than 100 kids who want to work are found places each summer.

JOBS RANGE from such humble work as mowing lawns and baby-sitting to more demanding and better paying positions as secretaries, sales work, and even some minor executive positions.

One lad, who got a summer job through the placement service two years ago, found his summer job—landscape gardening—so interesting that he went into business for himself.

This summer, the boy, Larry Stotler, will employ three part-time assistants from his alma mater, one of whom will be his brother, Ronald. He also has a full-time assistant on a year-round basis.

The Silver Spring Board of Trade enthusiastically behind the program. Its executive secretary, Charles Kopeland, points out that it's a big help to local businessmen to have qualified youngsters fill in for vacationing regular employees.

Here's how the program works: volunteers from the P.T.A. send some 800 letters to businessmen in the community, telling them that the high school kids want summer jobs.

They are invited to get in touch with the placement service for any temporary help they need. The businessmen have been told previously about the service from the board of trade and other civic groups.

THE KIDS who want summer work all are interviewed carefully by qualified P.T.A. volunteers and school officials and every effort is made to place the youngsters in jobs for which they are qualified.

In addition to the hundred who are found jobs by the placement service every year, lots of the kids scout up work on their own. The Labor department has free publications available for school groups and civic organizations who would like to begin such a program for their community. The department's address is Washington 25, D. C.

As one P.T.A. official in Silver Spring said, "We think the summer job program is wonderful. Youngsters of high school age need

What Happened To Hitler Aide?

Did Martin Bormann
Die Trying Escape?

By FRED HIFT
NEW YORK — Is Martin Bormann, one of the top dogs in the Hitler gang, alive, hiding out somewhere under an assumed name? Or did the ambitious Nazi leader die an ignominious death in the flaming ruins of Berlin while trying to escape from the city?

The evidence, scant as it is, seems about evenly divided. One man—Arthur Axmann, the Nazi youth leader—swears he saw Bormann dead, sprawling in the middle of a street.

However, others are equally sure that they saw him alive sometime after that.

The truth may never be known. In his lifetime Bormann saw to it that as few people as possible knew him personally. Unlike the other Nazi leaders, he kept in the background. Few pictures of him are in existence. He could walk about Berlin today without being recognized by anyone.

IN A WAY, Bormann was one of the most loyal and dangerous of Hitler's disciples. A schemer at heart, he battled the other favorites at the Nazi leader's court, particularly fat Hermann Goering.

Bormann had Hitler's ear, and he used his position to advance himself from being Rudolf Hess' adjutant to becoming head of the party chancellery.

Hitler trusted him implicitly although he frequently was warned against Bormann's genius for intrigue.

If anyone was close to the Nazi tyrant during the final days of the "Thousand Year Reich," when Der Fuehrer found himself trapped in the ruins of his capital, hiding out in his underground bunker, it was Bormann. He witnessed Hitler's "political testament" (which he carried with him from the bunker), and it was he who touched off the funeral pyre after Hitler and Eva Braun had committed suicide.

To Bormann, it seemed proper that Hitler should die. However, for himself, he perceived the end only as another beginning. Bormann craved power. When Hitler designated Admiral Doenitz to be the new Fuehrer, he saw a way of obtaining that top post.

From the bunker, following Hitler's death, went several wireless messages to Doenitz from Bormann. For reasons best known to himself, Bormann didn't actually inform his new chief that Hitler was dead. He did tell him, however, that he intended to join him (Doenitz) at German headquarters in Schleswig-Holstein.

It was a fantastic scheme, and it promptly collapsed when the Russians demanded unconditional surrender. Goebbels then killed himself (and his wife and six children), but Bormann—now in charge at the bunker—plotted a mass escape.

Consequently, in the late evening of May 1, 1945, the person still remaining in the dark shelter wound its way through a series of underground vaults and passages, and split into several groups, emerged into the tunnels of the Berlin subway through which the Russians also were advancing.

The group, of which Bormann was a part, gained the street near the Friedrichstrasse station and advanced in the direction of the Spree River. Some German tanks came along, and they took cover behind them.

The tank behind which Bormann was walking was hit by Russian fire and exploded. There is no question that Bormann, while knocked to the ground and possibly unconscious for a while, did not die there.

North Ohio Again Hit By Storms

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (P)—Sharp storms, scudding winds and sudden torrents of water played havoc Saturday night and again Sunday in half a dozen communities of northern Ohio.

Two lives were claimed near here.

In suburban Campbell, Steve Paulin, 38, and his friend, Boris Moissoff, 25, rushed from a tavern Saturday night when they saw Paulin's parked auto sliding down 12th St., a steep incline, as a sudden avalanche of water struck it.

Both were knocked off their feet and pinned under the car. Two other men who tried to rescue them had to be pulled out of the water by a human chain. Paulin and Moissoff both were drowned.

In Berea, a Cleveland suburb, a Saturday night deluge of more than an inch flooded many basements. Elmer T. Henson, 24, helping a friend pump water out of a basement, was electrocuted when he touched an electric motor.

In Elyria, about one-third of the city's lights went out Saturday night because of high winds that tore down electric lines.

Sunday's wind and rain storms curtailed baseball games, yacht races, horse shows, street carnivals and picnics in the Cleveland area, where another half-inch of rain was reported. The weather bureau in Cleveland said the wind reached gusts up to 50 m.p.h.

Teen-age Jobs Cut Delinquency

Budget Bolstered
For Family, Too

By DEANE AND DAVID HELLER
(Central Press Association)
WASHINGTON — One of the most practical steps any community can take to cut down on juvenile delinquency during the summer vacation months is to help teen-agers who would like to work find suitable summer jobs.

That's the opinion of Department of Labor officials, who point out that more than nine million lively youngsters are on vacation this summer.

About three and a half million of these will find some kind of summer work, either part-time or full-time.

However, there are a lot more who'd like to get summer jobs, the Labor officials say—but it's tough. The kids are young and inexperienced. A helping hand from civic groups and the communities in which they live could, undoubtedly, locate places for more of them.

There are plenty of other advantages for summer jobs for teen-agers, too, the Labor department points out. For one thing, with prices sky high and with the kids having the normal, healthy desire for money for clothes, good times and the like, a summer job can help ease the pinch on the family budget a lot.

PROBABLY most important, though, is the work experience the youngsters get. As every adult knows, working is a lot different from schooling. Having the youngsters get a taste of holding down a job, even a humble, temporary one, is about the finest kind of experience they can get.

How can civic-minded groups help the youngsters in their community find suitable summer work?

By way of answer, the department points out the experiences of an outstanding summer work program carried on during all of the summer months. It's jointly sponsored by the P-T-A, businessmen and school officials at Montgomery Blair High School in Silver Spring, Md., just across the District line from Washington, D. C.

This is the third year that Montgomery Blair has operated a free job placement service for students. More than 100 kids who want to work are found places each summer.

JOBS RANGE from such humble work as mowing lawns and baby-sitting to more demanding and better paying positions as secretaries, sales work, and even some minor executive positions.

One lad, who got a summer job through the placement service two years ago, found his summer job—landscape gardening—so interesting that he went into business for himself.

This summer, the boy, Larry Stodler, will employ three part-time assistants from his alma mater, one of whom will be his brother, Ronald. He also has a full-time assistant on a year-round basis.

The Silver Spring Board of Trade is enthusiastically behind the program. Its executive secretary, Charles Kopeland, points out that it's a big help to local businessmen to have qualified youngsters fill in for vacationing regular employees.

Here's how the program works: volunteers from the P-T-A send some 800 letters to businessmen in the community, telling them that the high school kids want summer jobs.

They are invited to get in touch with the placement service for any temporary help they need. The businessmen have been told previously about the service from the board of trade and other civic groups.

THE KIDS who want summer work all are interviewed carefully by qualified P-T-A volunteers and school officials and every effort is made to place the youngsters in jobs for which they are qualified.

In addition to the hundred who are found jobs by the placement service every year, lots of the kids scout up work on their own.

The Labor department has free publications available for school groups and civic organizations who would like to begin such a program for their community. The department's address is Washington 25, D. C.

As one P-T-A official in Silver Spring said, "We think the summer job program is wonderful. Youngsters of high school age need

Mrs. Stevens Presents Pupils In Recital

Mrs. Leland Stevens presented her speech pupils in the annual recital in the annex of the Presbyterian Church in Blooming'rg.

Lovely arrangements of garden flowers provided a background for the informal program which was thoroughly delightful.

The pre-school children, quite at ease, presented their numbers which were generously applauded even to the tiniest tot, two and a half year old Eileen Doyle, in her short speech.

This group of children opened the program with a finger play, in a skit entitled "All Aboard," and each little tot gave short individual numbers.

Four students Sandra Sue Evans, Peggy Cook, and Beverly and Sandra Evans presented three numbers with musical accompaniment.

Others appearing on the program were Lana Haymaker, Judy Michael, Becky Runnells, Becky Foy, Michael Duff, David Brown, Jeff Bloomer, Eileen Doyle, Loretta Ellis, Peggy and Patty Cook, Joan Seible, Sue Stephenson, Pamela Rhoads, Tommy and Pat Roberts, Henry Beverly and Sue Evans.

Mr. David Foster interspersed the program with piano impersonations in his own original imitable way and also adding to the pleasure of the evening were an instrumental duet by Anne Craig and Stephen Foster and a piano solo by Alice Craig.

Mr. David Foster and Miss Joy Hosler were accompanists for the evening and others assisting Mrs. Stevens were: Mrs. Rex Bloomer, Mrs. Frank Slager and Mrs. Arthur Engle, who were in charge of the decorations.

Saturday Evening Rites Unite Couple In Marriage

Mrs. J. Edward Cherryholmes

Miss Naomi Gettig, formerly of this city, became the bride of Rev. J. Edward Cherryholmes Saturday evening at the Miller Avenue E. U. B. Church, Columbus. Rev. C. S. Poling performed the double ring ceremony, assisted by Rev. B. C. Rife, Columbus. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Gettig, 714 Pleasant Ridge, Bexley. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cherryholmes, 614 Markison, Columbus.

The bride and her attendants came down an aisle lighted by white tapers twined with yellow daisies and ivy. Altar decorations centered around Sallman's painting of the "Head of Christ." The picture was banked in green and illuminated by a tiny spotlight. Candleabra stood on either side of the altar.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white pique in a "windward" silhouette. Her gown had a sabrina neckline and long sleeves and the bodice extended into a princess panel front. Gathers at the neckline on the sides, extended into a gathered back skirt, which gave the windward line. Her fingertip veil was caught to a simple white pique bandeau, and she carried a testament brought from the Holy Land, decorated with yellow majestie daisies and stephanotis.

Preceding Miss Gettig down the aisle were three attendants dressed in waltz-length gowns of yellow pique fashioned similar to that of the bride. Close friend of the bride, Mrs. John Alexander, Danville, Michigan, was matron of honor.

Mrs. Stevens Presents Pupils In Recital

Mrs. Leland Stevens presented her speech pupils in the annual recital in the annex of the Presbyterian Church in Bloomingburg.

Lovely arrangements of garden flowers provided a background for the informal program which was thoroughly delightful.

The pre-school children, quite at ease, presented their numbers which were generously applauded even to the tiniest tot, two and a half year old Eileen Doyle, in her short speech.

This group of children opened the program with a finger play, in a skit entitled "All Aboard," and each little tot gave short individual numbers.

Four students Sandra Sue Evans, Peggy Cook, and Beverly and Sandra Evans presented three numbers with musical accompaniment.

Others appearing on the program were Lana Haymaker, Judy Michael, Becky Rannels, Becky Foy, Michael Duff, David Browning, Jeff Bloomer, Eileen Doyle, Loretta Ellis, Peggy and Patty Cook, Joan Seible, Sue Stephenson, Pamela Rhoads, Tommy and Pat Roberts, Henry Beverly and Sue Evans.

Mr. David Foster interspersed the program with piano impersonations in his own original imitable way and also adding to the pleasure of the evening were an instrumental duet by Anne Craig and Stephen Foster and a piano solo by Alice Craig.

Mr. David Foster and Miss Joy Hosler were accompanists for the evening and others assisting Mrs. Stevens were: Mrs. Rex Bloomer, Mrs. Frank Slager and Mrs. Arthur Engle, who were in charge of the decorations.

Chisox Prove Yankees Not Cinch for Flag

Windy City Crew Wins Pair, Cutting New York Lead to Single Game

(By The Associated Press)

Any thoughts of a New York Yankee runaway in the American League have evaporated like the once handsome 6-5 game bulge.

The White Sox drubbed Casey Stengel's defending champions 14-2 and 6-3 Sunday to sweep their four-game series. The White Sox zoomed to within one game of the Yankees.

Not since 1945, when the St. Louis Browns accomplished the feat, has any team swept a four-game set from the Yankees.

The Yankees now boast a slimmer first-place lead than their National League counterparts, the Milwaukee Braves, who boosted their margin to two games by knocking off the New York Giants twice, 6-2 and 7-1, for their ninth and tenth straight triumphs. The Braves haven't tasted defeat since Fred Haney replaced Charlie Grimm at the helm a week ago.

Cincinnati's slugging Redlegs swept past Brooklyn into second place, winning two from the Dodgers 10-6 and 2-1. St. Louis and Philadelphia split, the Phillies winning 3-2, the Cardinals 8-4.

Pittsburgh ended an eight-game losing streak with an abbreviated five-inning, 1-0 victory over Chicago. The Cubs won the first game 5-3.

The Baltimore Orioles dealt Detroit a double 3-2 loss, stretching the Tigers' losing streak to eight in a row. Kansas City downed the Boston Red Sox 5-2 behind the six-hit pitching of southpaw Alex Kellner. Cleveland defeated Washington 7-2.

Three-run homers by Larry Doby in the first inning of each game started the White Sox off. The Sox slaughtered White Ford and two relievers for 18 hits in the opener, making it easy for Billy Pierce to breeze to his 11th triumph against two defeats.

Neither Ford nor Maury McDermott, second game starter, lasted through the first inning as the Sox rolled to their eighth success in a row. Gerry Staley, ex-Yankee, notched the nightcap win although he needed help from Dixie Howell.

Milwaukee got superb pitching from right-handers Lew Burdette and Gene Conley as they swept all four games from New York. Burdette yielded four hits in the opener. Conley was touched for four safeties until he gave way to Dave Jolly in the seventh inning of the second game. Danny O'Connell drove in three runs with a home run in the first game and knocked in two runs with a bases-loaded single in the second.

Golf's 19th Hole

Golf is getting into high gear at the Country Club now that the rains have let up—at least temporarily.

Next Sunday has been set for the first team best-ball tournament of the season and Tony Capuana, club pro, said he was expecting a big entry list.

And, the Women's Invitational Tournament is scheduled to be played here on July 18.

Only a week is left to complete the first round of the men's handicapped tournament. Results play last week were:

Austin Wise beat Charles Buxton 3 up; John Ellicott beat Harold Miller by default; Dick Korn beat Walter Rettig 4 up; Dick Filbin beat Herb Sollars 1 up; Dr. William Lawver beat Howard Mace 1 up; Bill Barrett beat Roger Grimm 2 up; Ralph Douglas beat John Trace 4 and 2; Horace Jacobs 2 up.

The kitchen of the club house is being remodeled to take care of increasing traffic. The next club dance is to be July 28 and hosts for Men's Night party Thursday are Dr. Lawyer, Dr. Binzel, Robert Callison, Ralph Korn, Lon Tannehill and Dr. John Richards.

ODDS AND ENDS from the pro's notebook: Carvel Echard was out for the first time last week. Mrs. Robert Wise was out for the first time in two years.

Mrs. Clarence Christian has a 66 for her best-ever. Miss Florence Cook and Miss Marie Marchant are sporting new golf carts.

New golfing members are Gene Gordon, Dave Morris, Jim Morris and Mrs. Everett Waddell. Lon Tannehill and Cecil R. Vanzant were golfing at Greenbrier, W. Va., for the last few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Buxton are back from a vacation in Arkansas. John Ellicott played golf at Logan during the week end.

Herbert E. Wilson was out for the first time in a couple of years. John Arnold turned in an 82 for his best 18-hole score of the season.

Charles Buxton is smoking cigars now... maybe to throw up a smoke screen for his opponents.

Austin Wise carded a par 36 for his best of the season.

Some of the better scores turned in last week were: Dr. Robert Hagerty 36; Bill Himmelsbach 36; Bill Junk 36; Clarence Christian 43; John Petty 42; Charles Buxton 38; Ed Vollette 42; John Armbrust 40; Tom Christopher 60; Mrs. Wayne Shobe 49; Mrs. Charles Griffiths 60; Mrs. Roger Littleton 58; Mrs. Willard McLean 51; Bernice Light 50; Talmadge Taylor 45; Tom Mark 46; John Trace 48 and Dr. L. All-Stars Bow to Good Hope in SWO

The Chillicothe All-Star, new team in the South Western Ohio League, went down in defeat Sunday in its opening game as Good Hope took the squad into camp, 6-2.

Good Hope won the contest easily, picking up one run in the second, three more in the fourth and another two in the fifth. Chillicothe got one in the fourth and another in the sixth inning.

Bob Dawes, pitching for Good Hope, struck out six batters and gave up only two walks. His brother, Dai Dawes, scored two runs for the winning run.

Fighting tight pitching on both sides, neither team was able to pick up an extra base hit. All 14 of the hits picked up by the two teams were singles.

Valiently fighting for the losing cause, George Probel scored both runs for his team.

Blanchester Upsets League-Leading Jeff

Blanchester rising from a bad start through the middle of the league, Sunday became the first South Western Ohio team to drop Jeffersonville, the league-leading and previously undefeated SWO squad.

The Blanchester team dumped Jeff, 6-4, on the Blanchester diamond Sunday afternoon.

Although they lost, Jeff still remains in first place in the league. However, they no longer have their enviable 1,000 percent average.

Blanchester's victory came in a fatal fifth inning when Jeff pitcher slipped up on its control. The home team scored four runs in that frame—enough for the victory.

Behind 3-1 at the beginning of the big fifth, the Blanchester squad started taking advantage of Jeff pitching and loaded the bases with three walks. Then Dave Dare came to the plate and lopped off a base-clearing double—the only extra-base hit of the game—that gave them the victory.

Chisox Prove Yankees Not Cinch for Flag

Windy City Crew Wins Pair, Cutting New York Lead to Single Game

(By The Associated Press)

Any thoughts of a New York Yankee runaway in the American League have evaporated like their once handsome 6½-game bulge.

The White Sox drubbed Casey Stengel's defending champions 14-2 and 6-3 Sunday to sweep their four-game series. The White Sox zoomed to within one game of the Yankees.

Not since 1945, when the St. Louis Browns accomplished the feat, has any team swept a four-game set from the Yankees.

The Yankees now boast a slimmer first-place lead than their National League counterparts, the Milwaukee Braves, who boosted their margin to two games by knocking off the New York Giants twice, 6-2 and 7-1, for their ninth and tenth straight triumphs. The Braves haven't tasted defeat since Fred Haney replaced Charlie Grimm at the helm a week ago.

Cincinnati's slugging Redlegs swept past Brooklyn into second place, winning two from the Dodgers 10-6 and 2-1. St. Louis and Philadelphia split, the Phillies winning 3-2, the Cardinals 8-4.

Pittsburgh ended an eight-game losing streak with an abbreviated five-inning, 1-0 victory over Chicago. The Cubs won the first game 5-3.

The Baltimore Orioles dealt Detroit a double 3-2 loss, stretching the Tigers' losing streak to eight in a row. Kansas City downed the Boston Red Sox 5-2 behind the six-hit pitching of southpaw Alex Kellner. Cleveland defeated Washington 7-2.

Three-run homers by Larry Doby in the first inning of each game started the White Sox off. The Sox slaughtered Whitey Ford and two relievers for 18 hits in the opener, making it easy for Billy Pierce to breeze to his 11th triumph against two defeats.

Neither Ford nor Maury McDermott, second game starter, lasted through the first inning as the Sox rolled to their eighth success in a row. Gerry Staley, ex-Yankee, notched the nightcap win although he needed help from Dixie Howell.

Milwaukee got superb pitching from right-handers Lew Burdette and Gene Conley as they swept all four games from New York. Burdette yielded four hits in the opener. Conley was touched for four safeties until he gave way to Dave Jolly in the seventh inning of the second game. Danny O'Connell drove in three runs with a home run in the first game and knocked in two runs with a bases-loaded single in the second.

Golf's 19th Hole

Golf is getting into high gear at the Country Club now that the rains have let up—at least temporarily.

Next Sunday has been set for the first team best-ball tournament of the season and Tony Capuana, club pro, said he was expecting a big entry list.

And, the Women's Invitational Tournament is scheduled to be played here on July 18.

Only a week is left to complete the first round of the men's handicap tournament. Results play last week were:

Austin Wise beat Charles Buxton 3 up; John Ellicor beat Harold Miller by default; Dick Korn beat Walter Rettig 4 up; Dick Filbin beat Herb Sollars 1 up; Dr. William Lawyer beat Howard Mace 1 up; Bill Barrett beat Roger Grimm 2 up; Ralph Douglass beat John Trace 4 and 2; Horace Jacobs

Cowboys Trounce Korn Kernels, 15-7

The Med-O-Pure Cowboys trounced the Korn Kernels, 15-7, in the second game of Saturday night's Little League double header at the Wilson Field here.

The Cowboys whipped the Kernels in a wild four-inning contest at the field. It was the Cowboys' third victory in four starts and the third loss in four for the Kernels.

Wasting no time getting the fray underway, the Cowboys sent home seven runs in a busy first inning. They picked up two more in the second and six more in the fourth for the victory.

All the Kernels' scoring came in the second and third innings. They scored five runs in the former and two more in the latter.

Charlie Wright hit his third home run of the season for the Boyboys in the contest.

The contest completed the second week of the first round of Little League play. The third week of the season starts tonight (Monday) at Wilson Field.

Minor league play begins in the Little League this week, too, with games scheduled for all six minor teams. Monday night, the Pennington Bakery squad plays Helfrich's Supermarket, while on Tuesday the Elks play the Main Restaurant and on Wednesday the Chows tackle Dixie's Auto Sales.

In the major league, the Jets play the Realtors on Monday, the Cubs play the Kernels on Tuesday and the Flashes play the Cowboys on Wednesday.

All-Stars Bow to Good Hope in SWO

The Chillicothe All-Star, newest team in the South Western Ohio League, went down in defeat Sunday in its opening game as Good Hope took the squad in to camp, 6-2.

Good Hope won the contest easily, picking up one run in the second, three more in the fourth and another two in the fifth. Chillicothe got one in the fourth and another in the sixth inning.

Bob Dawes, pitching for Good Hope, struck out six batters and gave up only two walks. His brother, Dale Dawes, scored two runs for the winning cause.

Fighting tight pitching on both sides, neither team was able to pick up an extra base hit. All 14 of the hits picked up by the two teams were singles.

Valiently fighting for the losing cause, George Prohol scored both runs for his team.

Blanchester Upsets League-Leading Jeff

Blanchester rising from a bad start through the middle of the league, Sunday became the first South Western Ohio loop team to drop Jeffersonville, the league-leading and previously undefeated SWO squad.

The Blanchester team dumped Jeff, 6-4, on the Blanchester diamond Sunday afternoon.

Although they lost, Jeff still remains in first place in the league. However, they no longer have their enviable 1,000 percent average.

Blanchester's victory came in a fatal fifth inning when Jeff pitching slipped up on its control. The home team scored four runs in that frame—enough for the victory.

Behind 3-1 at the beginning of the big fifth, the Blanchester squad started taking advantage of Jeff pitching and loaded the bases with three walks. Then Dave Dare came to the plate and lopped off a base-clearing double—the only extra base hit of the game—that gave them the victory.

Grabbing their last chance, the Juniors thumped the Peebles nine in a hard-fought battle.

The victory means that the Washington C. H. team will go on into the next round of Legion tourney play. Although they lost to Ironton a week ago Sunday, they must be beaten twice before they drop out.

Peebles, which lost to Portsmouth a week ago, is now out of the tourney for good.

Marlene Hagge Wins Ladies PGA

DETROIT (AP)—Pert, blonde Marlene Bauer Hagge today had the Ladies Professional Golf Assn. championship and $1,350 of new cash in her purse.

The 22-year-old from Asheville, N. C., defeated the 38-year-old veteran Patty Berg of St. Andrews, Ill., on the first hole of a sudden-death playoff for the LPGA title here yesterday.

They ended the regulation 72 holes of medal play tied at 291. Mrs. Hagge got a par 5 on the first extra hole, sinking her 18-inch putt. Miss Berg missed from seven feet away.

Dave Smalley of Albuquerque, N. M., is the first Navy player to win the Eastern Intercollegiate Baseball League batting title. He hit .419 for the Middies.

239 X-rays Made Here Saturday

Three-day Total Brought to 561

The 239 people who received their chest X-rays Saturday brought to 561 the number who had taken advantage of the opportunity during the first three days of the six-day survey here.

Mrs. Jan Geisenhof, executive secretary of the Tuberculosis and Health Assn. here, said "we are all very well pleased with the response." However, she said she hoped there would be an increase during the next three days.

The survey is sponsored jointly by the association and the county's Health Department. The mobile X-ray unit was sent here by the state and there is no charge for the X-rays.

The first day the unit was here, it was at the Cudahy Packing Co. plant where 97 were X-rayed. Friday it was moved to the King-Kash Furniture Store where it is to remain until Wednesday, the last day of the survey.

On Friday, the first day that it was set up for the benefit of the general public, 225 X-rays were made. It is to be ready for use from 11 a. m. until 5 p. m. Monday and Tuesday and from 2 until 8 p. m. on Wednesday.

RECORDS show that 52 persons over 65 years old have been X-rayed to date — 25 on Friday and 27 on Saturday. The sponsors have been emphasizing the importance of chest X-rays to older people as well as to the younger.

Mrs. Geisenhof pointed out that the chest X-rays also detect certain types of cancer and heart ailments in addition to tuberculosis.

A cake was given to John H. Nichols, 930 E. Market St., as the oldest individual getting an X-ray Saturday. A cake is to be given each of the remaining three days.

Members of the Lions Club were the hostesses for Saturday. They also handled the registrations. They were (11 a. m. until 2 p. m.) Mrs. Robert Lytton, Mrs. Harry Thraill, Mrs. Howard Wright, Mrs. Paul Van Voorhis, Mrs. Byers Shaw and Mrs. Mark Schaefer and (2 p. m. until 5 p. m.) Mrs. Ed Vollette, Mrs. Omar Schwartz, Mrs. Richard Barger, Mrs. Charles Griffiths, Mrs. Marvin Rossmann and Mrs. John Trace.

Members of the Newcomers Club are the hostesses Monday.

Ohio State's fifth president was another minister, Dr. William Oxley Thompson. His 26-year term from 1899 to 1921 is the longest in the university's history.

Dr. Thompson was born in Cambridge. He worked his way through Muskingum College by tutoring and working as a janitor and farm hand.

Dr. Thompson's successor was an Ohio State alumnus. President George Washington Rightmire was the son of a Lawrence County charcoal foundryman. He taught country schools in the Portsmouth area for our years after graduating from high school to get enough money to go to Ohio State.

Dr. Rightmire was a Phi Beta Kappa and had been a member of the OSU football team. He was on the faculty of the university's college of law when he was named to succeed Dr. Thompson. He served as president for 13 years.

Ohio State's retiring president, Dr. Howard L. Bevis, was born and raised in Hamilton County. He is a graduate of the University of Cincinnati, class of 1908.

Under Bevis the university had its greatest expansion, reaching a peak enrollment of 21,400 in 1947.

Clean-up Continues At Burned Bakery

Clean-up work continued at the fire-ravaged Pennington bakery plant here today, as company officials still wrestled with the problem of whether to rebuild on the Clinton Ave. site or to transfer its Washington, C. H. operations elsewhere—possibly to Columbus.

Morgan B. Pennington, president of the firm, told the Record-Herald Monday morning that a decision on the company's future plans probably will be made this week, but he indicated a number of factors are yet to be considered before an announcement is made.

Still to be ascertained is the condition of foundations, floors and plumbing at the local plant wrecked by a disastrous blaze early on the morning of June 9. The loss figure is expected to range some where between $500,000 and a million dollars.

RUINED equipment is being moved and sold as junk, but melted sugar and water-soaked flour mixed with charcoal is delaying the clean-up. Whether some of the heavier machinery can be salvaged is still a matter of conjecture.

A special Chamber of Commerce committee, headed by Robert Terhune, has been working with the Pennington firm, offering every possible local assistance toward rebuilding or relocating here.

The company, whose present Washington, C. H. operations are limited to reloading bread and other baked goods, produced elsewhere, on route trucks, had employed approximately 200 persons here before the fire, with a weekly payroll of more than $13,000.

US Reds Planning To Criticize Reds

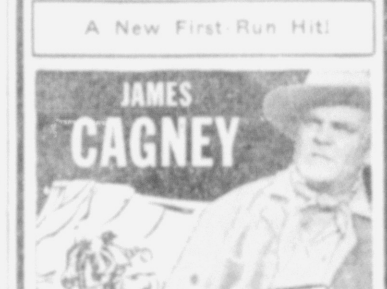

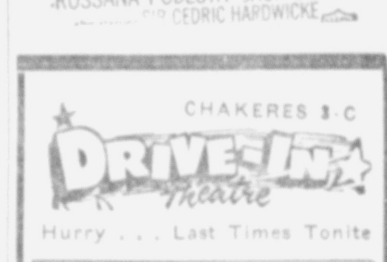

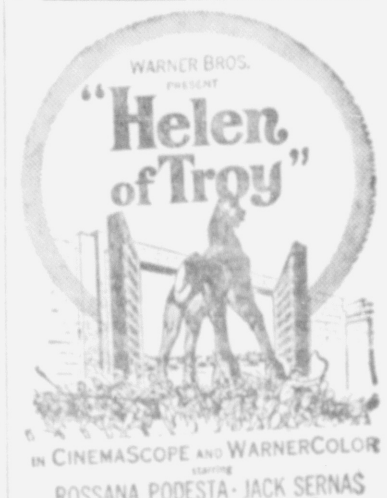

NEW YORK (AP)—The U. S. Communist party says it has the "right and duty" to engage in "friendly criticism" of Red comrades in the Soviet Union and other countries.

The party yesterday declared a degree of independence from Moscow's domination. The American Communists also said they couldn't go along with Nikita S. Khrushchev's charges that Stalin was 100 per cent to blame for the excesses of his regime. The U. S. party was described as "an independent Marxist party of American workers dedicated to socialism."
